

Fig. 1. TEM of transrotational microcrystals grown for Se (a) and Fe₂O₃ (b) with changes in crystallographic orientations revealed shown in colors, schematic drawings for proposed mechanism of transrotational crystal growth (c) and new concept of amorphous/glassy models based on nano crystals with curved lattice (d) in 2 (above and below) of different probable options.